Foraging guidelines

Wild mushrooms can be deadly. Collect only what you can identify with certainty.

Identification

- Never eat a mushroom unless you are sure what it is. When in doubt, throw it out.
- Learn the look-alikes. False morels have wrinkled, brain-like caps and are not hollow inside.
- Keep each kind of mushroom in its own bag so a poisonous one cannot mix in.

In the field

- Brush off dirt in the field, and leave small and old mushrooms to spread spores.
- Carry a map and a compass or GPS. Burned forest looks the same in every direction.
- Wear sturdy boots, and stay out of burned areas on windy days.

Sample document for the demonstration site. It is not an official notice and is not for navigation.